A consolidated version of the draft opinion containing all comments was circulated before the WG meeting and discussed by the members of the WG. The WG members agreed to provide draft CAGs documenting clearly reasoning for excluding effects (non-relevance, non-specificity). It was agreed to that in the opinion the options for further refinement of grouping, limitations of the approach followed and the uncertainties should be clearly described in a separate chapter of the opinion as this was information of highest importance for the risk managers to take decisions. 4. Scientific opinion of the PPR Panel on identification of pesticides to be included in cumulative assessment groups on the basis of their toxicological profile

Discussion of the first draft version of the opinion prepared by the rapporteur, of a concept for guidance for grouping and of the draft proposal on scientific issues for inclusion of a new substances in a CAG

Discussion about overall structure of the opinion
Agreed to add a short description of content and structure of opinion to be added to the introduction.

Discussion of the usability of the database
The WG discussed the general principles to be applied for grouping. A problem is that for many substances mechanistic data was lacking. It was proposed to focus in the discussions on the procedures for establishing CAGs. It was noted that the final outcome of the opinion should be a list with CAGs that should be accepted EU wide. Following the opinion a guidance document should be drafted for grouping pesticides for CRA. It was agreed that it was a good idea also to carry out several case studies.

Discussion about the Grouping approach
Agreed that in regard to the principles of grouping the extent on knowledge on MoA was crucial and should be clearly documented. Relevance of different MoAs for humans had to be considered as well. Justification for the grouping approach(es) taken has to be provided. Criteria for grouping have to be clearly explained.

Timeline for delivery of contributions
Draft opinion to be ready for public consultation by end of March 2012.
Opinion to be adopted end of June 2012.

4. Appointment of a Chair for the Working Group

5. Scientific opinion of the PPR Panel on identification of pesticides to be included in cumulative assessment groups on the basis their toxicological profile

Maria Tasheva reported on the current state of the works in regard to the preparation of the CAG opinion. Preparatory work was outsourced and was delayed. A preliminary final report will be available in February. EFSA gave a presentation on the regulatory background of the opinion.

In the discussion after the presentation the experts agreed that establishing the CAGs should be well described in the opinion to obtain wide acceptance for the criteria applied. It was noted that cumulative risk assessment for operators, workers and bystanders should be carried out as well. EFSA informed that another call for outsourced work for the preparation on an opinion on cumulative non-dietary risk assessment had been launched.

Angelo Moretto presented briefly the outcome and conclusions of the first PPR opinion on cumulative risk assessment where relevant existing methodologies had been investigated.

It was agreed that acute and chronic effects had to be considered in parallel.

Maria Tasheva gave a presentation on lessons learnt from the first two opinions on CRA with an emphasis on toxicology since that was important also for the present opinion. She pointed out that the triazole opinion was not an assessment of substances per se but a tryout of the principles established in the first opinion.

The group then discussed the risk management elements possibly contained in the future guidance document. It was agreed that the context of the mandate, legal requirements, background of the opinion were already defined in the Terms of Reference, and will be reflected in the introduction. An overview on relevant EC activities should also be presented in the opinion. A draft structure of the opinion was discussed and agreed upon as well.

A detailed workplan will be discussed once the final report from the outsourced work is available.
